DESCRIPTION

Sobloo is a unique place where to benefit from the long-standing history of Copernicus with Airbus, in various aspects of earth observation, space and defence alongside with a consistent cloud and services offer.

Partnerships and cooperation are at the core of our growth plan; leveraging our partners and customers help build a network of expertise and reach an extended community, putting our imagery, data and services into the hands of even more users.

We want to trigger cross-fertilization by providing a comprehensive set of satellite imagery ad services to startups, labs, institutions and universities, allowing them to access first class imagery, by using Sobloo.

Today, Airbus is supporting the GO2SPACE Hackathon.
